

Village Green Center Subcommittee Descriptions

Epicenter on the Prairie

(Civic Facilities & Amenities | Smart Community)

Summary: When interested residents decide where to live and begin the process of making a major life investment, the quality of life is a prominent qualification – the hallmark of community pride. This is demonstrated in many ways, but it is predominately found in the quality of its public facilities signifying the community’s investment to its future and well-being of a tightly connected community.

Community pride, as demonstrated in its public and civic facilities, is essentially the brand of a community. It embodies the social fabric that holds together everything a community offers. The creation of dynamic public facilities and civic centers for community interaction is the center of community pride, a place where community gathers with family and friends.

Focus: This subcommittee will focus on defining the Village’s community-orientated brand related to the purpose and design of high quality public and civic facilities, all supporting the community’s health, well-being and sense of pride.
